

PRESIDENT IN COAL PARLEY

New Castle Welcoming Rotary Host From Many Cities

District Governor

GLENNIS R. RICKERT

Wielding the gavel in most of the convention sessions will be District Governor Rickert—"Rick" in Rotary—who is superintendent of schools at Kane, Pa. One of the conference's traditional highlights, the district governor's ball, will honor Governor and Mrs. Rickert tonight. It will be at the Cathedral.

PA NEW OBSERVES

As representative of the citizens of New Castle, Pa. New is more than glad to extend a welcome to the host of Rotarians from the 175th district, who will be in attendance at the sessions of the three-day conference in this city, starting this evening. It is the hope of all New Castle that the visit will be inspiring and enjoyable.

Hundreds of beautiful tulips are in full bloom and are attracting considerable attention in the rear yard of the residence at 25 East Long avenue.

Landscape artists have started work on setting out a large number of shrubs and trees at the Highland U. P. church property at Highland and Park avenues. The church surroundings will be much beautified as a result.

Showers which fell last night and this morning will have a beneficial effect on vegetation generally. Early garden truck and growing things have been in need of a little moisture, no rain having fallen for ten days, and the top soil has gotten pretty dry.

Main street "curbstones" are entertained several times a week by a band which rehearses on the second floor of a building near North Mercer street. The melodious tunes add an unusual atmosphere to the avenue.

"On A Blind Date With You," a popular song written by Fred Moser, of this city, will be played on KDKA tonight, at 6:30 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time, it is announced. Recently, a group of New Castle folks signed a petition to the orchestra leader asking that the song be played. The list contained 1,013 names.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Vice President John N. Garner and Thomas E. Dewey, New York City district attorney, today are the nation's choices for the major 1940 presidential nominations, according to a poll conducted by Emil Hurja, noted Democratic statistical authority.

Hurja conducted the official Democratic polls in 1932 and 1936 that enabled Democratic National Chairman James A. Parley to accurately forecast the outcome of the last two presidential elections.

He made one concession in his poll of 1940 Democratic possibilities. He left President Roosevelt out of the picture.
His Democratic returns from the nation showed: Garner, 45.3 per cent of the vote; Secretary of State Hull, 23.5 per cent; Parley, 18.2 per cent; Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri, 8 per cent, and Philippine Commissioner Paul V. McNutt of Indiana, 5.3 per cent.
On the Republican side, Hurja's returns from the nation were: Dewey, 44.8 per cent; Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, 21.5 per cent; Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, 18.2 per cent; Alf M. Landon, 1936 nominee, 13.1 per cent, and Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York City, 2.1 per cent.

Jury In Phoenix Declares Carpenter Is "Charlie" Ross

Returns Finding That Aged Man Is Kidnaping Victim Of 65 Years Ago

(International News Service)
PHOENIX, Arizona, May 9.—Gustav Blair, 69 year old Phoenix carpenter, was recognized legally today as the Charles Ross whose kidnaping in Germantown, Pa., 65 years ago stunned the nation.

A Maricopa county superior court jury took only eight minutes yesterday to decide that Blair was Ross as he claimed.
The establishment of identity came as the result of a civil action filed by Blair against Walter L. Ross, Sophia Ross, Marian K. Ross and Anne C. Ross, all of Germantown, and claimed by Blair to be other sons and daughters of Christian K. Ross, father of the kidnaped child.
None of the defendants answered the complaint, and Superior Judge G. A. Rogers directed the jurors to decide in Blair's favor. Blair had contended the other Ross children had refused to recognize his claim that he was the missing child.

Girl Scouts Are Given Camp Site By Mrs. Shaffer

Announcement Is Made Today Of Gift Of 62 Acres Along Slippery Rock Creek

IS LOCATED IN BUTLER COUNTY

Announcement is made today of the gift of a permanent camp site for the Girl Scouts of New Castle, Inc., which consists of 62 acres of rugged woodland along Slippery Rock Creek near Slippery Rock in Cherry Township, Butler County. The gift was made by Mrs. Jennie Shaffer, of 813 Butler avenue.

Situated in the valley of the Slippery Rock, the camp site is said to embrace all the scenic beauty of the valley, being covered with beautiful trees, wild flowers, rugged rocks—a nature lover's paradise, which attracts much wild life.

Northeast Of Slippery Rock
The location is four miles northeast of Slippery Rock, and is reached by a Pinchot type road from the main highway. A survey of the land made by a local engineer reveals that there is a plentiful water supply for sanitation purposes and for a swimming pool.

It is said that last year 15 deer were sighted on the property, giving some idea of the wild nature of the property. It lies immediately adjacent to Mercer Limestone Company land.

No plans have as yet been made for the development of the site. Officers of the Girl Scouts feel extremely grateful to Mrs. Shaffer for this splendid gift, which fills a long-felt want of the New Castle Girl Scouts.

Confirmation Of Lawrence County Board Delayed

County Relief Board Appointments Sent To Senate Committee For Study

CONFIRM BOARDS FOR 56 COUNTIES

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, May 9.—The complete membership of 56 county boards of public assistance today was authorized to take up its duties following confirmation by the senate after a six weeks' delay.

In three other counties—Butler, Clinton and Mercer—one member of the seven-member boards were unconfirmed, all the other members being approved.

In eight counties the nominations of the board members were referred back to the committee on executive nominations for further study into their qualifications. The counties were: Allegheny, Cumberland, Beaver, Lawrence, Northumberland, Fayette, Cambria and Delaware.

Delay in the confirmation of 63 of the 477 county relief board members was due usually to the individual objections of senators from the counties involved. In the case of Delaware county, the objection came from Sen. Harry Shapiro, D, Philadelphia.

Individual senators, in explaining the reasons for their objections and consequent failure of the senate to confirm, on several occasions contended that the governor's selections were purely political.

Anglo-French Agreement With Turkey Is Seen

The tri-partite accord is to be considered by the cabinet tomorrow. Authorities stated Chamberlain hopes to be able to announce conclusion of the agreement in the House of Commons before the week end.

Such an accord, it is said, would materially advance Britain's drive to create a system of alliances and pacts designed to bloc further Nazi expansion at Europe's expense.

Duke Of Windsor Makes Dramatic Peace Appeal

(International News Service)
PARIS, May 9.—Possibility that the Duke of Windsor may be seeking a new and active career as a spokesman in the cause of world peace aroused keen speculation in Paris today following his dramatic peace appeal, broadcast to the United States.

Ignoring an official radio boycott in Great Britain, the Duke urged the leaders of the world to stem propaganda as a means of averting war.

Millions of world-wide short-wave listeners, including many in Britain, heard the words the Duke directed to a vast unseen audience in the United States, explaining he was breaking a silence of two and a half years only because of the danger of imminent war in Europe.

First Utterance Since Abdication
The radio speech was the first made by the former King Edward VIII since Dec. 11, 1936, when he announced his abdication to marry the American-born "woman I love."

In his speech, which the Duchess of Windsor helped him prepare, the Duke declared he spoke "simply as a soldier of the last war" and that (Continued On Page Two)

Coal Shortage In Nation Is Becoming Serious—Dramatic Action May Come

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, May 9.—Told by President Roosevelt that their labor dispute must be settled quickly, miners and operators in the costly deadlocked soft coal negotiations this afternoon suddenly switched their conferences back to New York, after conferring with the President for one hour and 15 minutes in the White House.

By JACK VINCENT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Ready to take drastic action, if necessary, President Roosevelt today personally assumed the role of peace-maker in the deadlocked soft-coal negotiations—a deadlock now proclaimed a national emergency.

With "only a few hours to go" before the coal shortage resulting from the deadlock begins to paralyze the nation's industry and transportation, the scene of the negotiations between John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers union and soft-coal operators, was suddenly switched from New York to the White House during the night after all other government intervention failed.

To Make Recommendations
President Roosevelt, in a meeting with committees representing the embattled miners and operators today, was to make definite recommendations to end the deadlock.

It was learned the president may suggest a truce providing for immediate reopening of the mines, negotiations to reach a final settlement continue. The committees of miners and operators arrived in Washington by train this morning, and were to be given the truce proposal from the president in his executive offices later in the day.

May Take Drastic Action
If that fails, Mr. Roosevelt, will take drastic action. Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins disclosed.

Miss Perkins arranged the White House conference after her own personal intervention in the eight-week-old deadlock in New York failed to bring about a settlement last night.

The administration, she revealed, now was fighting against time to effect a settlement. The government had only one objective—to reopen the mines and start coal movement. (Continued On Page Two)

The score doesn't come till the summer is gone and the produce is ready to can. Pope Pius XII In Peace Attempt

Seeks To Soothe Germany-Poland

Report Pope Has Intervened Actively In Behalf Of Peaceful Adjustment

BRITAIN IS ALSO SEEKING PEACE

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, May 9.—Pope Pius XII has intervened actively to terminate tension between Berlin and Warsaw over Danzig and the Polish Corridor and thus prevent a possible European conflict, it was reported authoritatively today.

According to diplomatic quarters, the holy father urged the governments of Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Poland to hold a five-power conference to end the German-Polish tension.

At the same time, there were open intimations that Great Britain would be willing to mediate in the German-Polish dispute.

Pope Is Active

Evidence that Pope Pius is actively taking a hand along with Britain to prevent a German-Polish explosion mounted with receipt of news from Warsaw that the papal nuncio to Poland, Mgr. Filippo Cortesi, held a lengthy conference in the Polish capital with Foreign Minister Josef Beck.

The British diplomatic efforts in Warsaw appeared to have included an attempt to induce the Poles to grant some concessions to Germany with regard to both Danzig and the Corridor. The British ambassador in Warsaw, Sir Howard Kennard, also conferred with Beck.

Diplomatic quarters in London and other European chancelleries eagerly studied the pontiff's reported proposal, which contemplated summoning the five-power conference at an early date in the papal palace at Vatican City.

Berlin, May 9.—Pope Pius' invitation to join in a five-power conference at Vatican City for pacification of Europe was foremost among the vital matters discussed by Chancellor Hitler and Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop in a lengthy consultation at Munich today, it was learned on high authority.

he deplored use of such terms as "encirclement" and "aggression" in the war of words between the Rome-Berlin axis and the Anglo-French block.

He called upon responsible statesmen to "discourage" such propaganda, which he said "tends to poison the minds of the people of the world."

Standing on the site of the battle of Verdun, the Duke voiced the "profound conviction that there is no land whose people want war."

He appealed to statesmen to sit down at conference tables "to save humanity from the terrible fate which threatens it today."

Peace Far Too Vital

"You and I," he said, "know that peace is a matter far too vital for our happiness to be treated as a political question. We also know that in modern warfare, victory will link only with the powers of evil. Anarchy and chaos are the inevitable results with consequent misery for us all."

"Upon this and other battlefields throughout the world, millions of men have suffered and died. And I talk to you from this historic place, I am deeply conscious of the great company of the dead and I am convinced that, could they make their voices heard, they would be with me in what I am about to say."

"For two and a half years I have deliberately kept outside public affairs and I still propose to do so. I speak for no one but myself, without the previous knowledge of any government."

"I speak simply as a soldier of the last war, whose most earnest prayer is that such cruel and destructive madness shall never again overtake mankind."

"He Profits Most—"

FROM every corner of Western Pennsylvania, today, a host of business men and their wives are in New Castle for the three day convention of the 175th district of Rotary. Rotarians or Rotary-Anns, all of them they epitomize the highest ethics in the business world.

"He profits most who serves best" is the banner under which they operate and that banner has been carried high in Rotary in this district. Look back over the past twenty years and you will find that every worth while venture has had the support of Rotary. Crippled children have been helped to walk, hungry children have been fed, underprivileged children have been given some of the advantages of the more fortunate.

The profit the Rotarians have received from their altruistic work has been large. The joy of seeing one child walk again would be sufficient return for all their investment but they have gone on enlarging and expanding their sphere of ministration.

New Castle is genuinely delighted to welcome the visiting Rotarians. Here in New Castle the Rotary club has lived up to the highest tradition in Rotarianism. Inspired by the ideals of the founder, Paul Harris, who is the honor guest of the convention the local Rotarians have carried on in admirable fashion.

It is the sincere hope of us all that out of the convention will come renewed vigor and strength, more vision and inspiration, to the end that Rotary will climb to even loftier heights than it has achieved.

OBSERVE THE COURTESIES

Apprehension that the visit of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth of England might be made the occasion of uncomplimentary acts or observations in the United States is confirmed in advance. From Congress itself come remarks that must embarrass the royal couple; for if the highest legislative branch of the government indulges in criticism and sarcasm, what can they expect from less responsible quarters?

Common courtesy suggests at least a restraint of tongue before and during the visit of their British Majesties. Even if we suspect that the unprecedented trip to America is inspired by a desire to strengthen British-American relations and to build up sympathy for the plight of the European democratic powers, the people of the United States need not be lacking in that politeness with which civilized nations greet rulers of other states even though hostile. King George and Queen Elizabeth come as friends; we can welcome them as friends without sacrificing our independence of thought and action.

It was Senator Bone of Washington who cast the first stone by bringing up the question of the British war debt to the United States. Until this matter is settled, he said, "the bulk of the American people will wonder why they should concern themselves with a situation which may lead them again to the shambles." To this rather innocuous remark Representative Sweeney contributed the thought that the royal couple should be taken for a stroll across the street from the White House to the Treasury.

DEMAND FOR NETS

We are proud of ourselves in this country because we have done away with some of the more brutal aspects of life. The law frowns on dangerous sports, on cock fights, even on tying tin cans to dogs' tails. We enjoy, however, two exceptions. The American public likes prize fights. It also, apparently, likes to see people risk life and limb on high wires in the circus.

There is something to be said for prize fights. Life is not usually involved, nor severe injury. Both contestants have the privilege of calling quits. A mistake in technique may mean defeat, but it does not mean death.

A mistake on high wires in the circus is usually fatal unless the performer uses a net. Is there any reason why the American public, so humane in regard to animals, so careful of human welfare, should enjoy seeing aerial artists take their lives in their hands? An eye witness of the circus accident in Boston the other day which ended the acrobatic career of Fritz Bartoni, announces that he will never again watch a circus performer on the high trapeze, or wire unless a net is part of the show.

We are not early Romans delighting in the spilling of blood for amusement. It is neither pleasant nor uplifting to watch a skilled artist run the risk of death or permanent injury. And when the inevitable accident occurs, the public is to blame for encouraging circus managements to endanger the lives of performers. Surely the American public demands no such sacrifice of the people who work for its amusement.

NOT ENOUGH JOBS IN SIGHT

Soon the members of the class of 1939 of the colleges and high schools will be ready to go to work. There is every indication that there won't be nearly enough jobs to go around.

The United States Census Bureau recently reported that the number of factories in active operation in 1938 was 166,793. That was a reduction of 44,167 since 1929. The number of factories with smokeless stacks and broken window panes makes an impression upon every one riding through an industrial community.

Meanwhile new concerns are not being started to take the place of the ones which are suspending. The index shows that during the year 1938 there was a smaller number of enterprises started than at any time since 1925.

The companies which have ceased operating haven't done that to be mean about it. The factories haven't shut down to get even with Mr. Roosevelt. Operations have stopped because they have ceased to be profitable under the conditions which now prevail. The usual number of new companies is not being started because high taxes, government regulation, and uncertainty about the future do not offer prospect for adequate business returns.

No man of means in his right mind will put capital into a new enterprise when he knows in advance that if there is a loss he must bear it and if there is a profit it goes to the government. That is why old business concerns are dying out and new businesses are not springing up in their place. That is why many of the graduates won't find the jobs they hope for.—Chicago Tribune.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

DON'T MAKE CHILD SUFFER

MANY parents are growing sensible about the choice of play clothes for young children. These clothes permit the child freedom of activity, and in wearing them he does not have to look noticeably different from his playmates. Because play clothes are fairly well standardized nowadays, wise selection is not necessarily a matter of money.

Considerate parents let children share in the selection of their clothes. Here are important questions: Will the child like them? Are they made of suitable materials? Are they well made? Are they comfortable, fitting properly?

Why will some parents force a child to wear clothing he dislikes, especially when it is not a matter of cost? Why must so many children suffer just to suit a mother's whim?

Enough Room

We want to make sure that necks and armholes are so cut and tailored as not to bind, and are sufficiently roomy; that seats in underwear, bloomers and shorts are amply large. Some manufacturers are skimping with materials and it is often discovered too late by the parent. Be sure the clothes are amply cut. Look for inverted pleats and darts. They generally improve the fit of the garment and afford adequate roomness.

Knitted suits of different weights are generally desirable for indoor and outdoor use, since they afford freedom of activity and are comfortable.

Thanks to bigger and fewer buttons and to zippers, children's clothes nowadays promote self-help and independence. Woven elastic is also used in making many children's garments. When the openings are at the side or back, they should be wide enough for the child to manage well. As a rule, front openings are best.

About the fabrics, let us ask in choosing them: Are they durable? Are they light of weight? Are they soft in texture? Will they wash easily?

Let us try to get warmth without excessive weight and clumsiness.

Outdoor garments for boys and girls should have adjustable hems to allow for growth. Double-breasted ones give extra warmth because of their overlapping.

Best Sleeves

Experts recommend the raglan or saddle sleeves with cuffs. Big armholes are easy to slip on. They give freedom to the shoulders, arms and body. Underneath them sweaters may be comfortably worn. Cuffs can be let out as the arms grow longer.

In comparison with inexpensive clothes on the market, home-made clothes at still less cost may have these advantages: ample cut, proper fasteners, long pockets, extra long waist-tail, raglan sleeves, deep hems, adjustable straps, comfortable but well-fitted waist lines, sleeve, neck and big bands.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

"HOUSECLEANING"

In old chests are often found interesting documents written in years gone by, by this or that ancestor—old letters, old essays, old Diplomas and Degrees, and some of them are very interesting.

One such was handed to me recently. It evidently was an essay written just after the close of the Civil War. The essay is undated and unsigned, but the writer is supposed, by the family in whose possession it now is, to have been one Hannibal Green, who established in Troy, New York, an iron business, early in the Nineteenth Century, and which business has continued for more than one hundred years. Being a very interesting writing, I am giving it here intact. It was entitled by the writer, "Housecleaning."

"Housecleaning is a peculiar institution. Whether it had its origin among the Aborigines, or among civilized people, it matters not. It is a universal custom. No housekeeper is considered civilized unless she has a general upturning and up-heaving of things once a year.

"Spring weather brings with it the housecleaning fever. The victims of this disease exhibit its symptoms by frequently exclaiming: 'How dirty and soiled everything is. The house must be cleaned!' Whilst they are preparing for the seige, the so-called 'lords of creation', perceiving warlike movements, beat a quiet retreat, thinking I suppose discretion the better part of valor. Even the friends of the family keep in the distance.

"Fourth the actors proceed to action. Chairs, tables and stoves are renovated; carpets are taken up and carried into the open air, where the unoffending things are beaten with many stripes; paper is torn from the walls; cupboards and closets are emptied of their contents. Confusion reigns. The hidden filth is suddenly exposed to an open attack. The laborers properly equipped not with swords and bayonets, but with brooms, weapons peculiar to a portion of humanity, concentrate their forces. The make the first assault. Not successful with these, they resort to scouring and whitewashing, as the most scientific way of annihilating the enemy.

When, lo! as if by magic, order takes the place of chaotic confusion, beauty of deformity and purity reigns in every apartment. Things settle quickly into their places and the regular routine goes on as before.

"Nations, as well as individuals, cleanse their habitations, but not so frequently. Therefore, much longer time is required for their purification than for the individual's.

A neighbor, who is a socially ambitious bride, asked me this morning whether she should introduce her husband as "George." "Mr. Smith" or "my husband." As it may help others, I quote my advice: To a servant introduce him as "Mr. Smith"; to friends of your inner circle as "George"; to the acquaintances of your outer circle as "my husband."

Reader's Questions Answered

Dear Miss Markel—When a death notice states that flowers are to be omitted, should one strictly adhere to it? If so, how may one show her sympathy? FRIEND.

Answer—If you are a very dear friend of the deceased or his family, you are privileged to disregard such a notice, but if you are merely an acquaintance, in either a social or a business way, you should respect the notice and refrain from sending flowers. In this case a note of condolence would be proper.

OBJECTIONS OF DIRECTORS. Executives who seek advice and authority from a committee or a board of directors every time they turn around seldom accomplish anything outside the bare routine of their jobs.

When a new idea is presented to a group, some members are bound to offer objections, often merely for the sheer pleasure of showing off their ability to shoot holes in anything. They wish to demonstrate their alertness and capacity for analysis.

Jap Threat Is Bombshell To Nations
Demand Anti-Jap Activity Be Stopped
Threaten To Take Shanghai Alarming

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

Japan's implied threat of a military occupation of Shanghai's foreign settlement, near the Chinese coast, fell with something of a bombshell's emphasis upon the State Department in Washington the other day. It doubtless landed with equal force in London's, Paris' and several other European capitals' foreign offices.

The mikado's warning was to the effect that anti-Japanese activity within the foreign settlement's limits must stop or an 'acute situation' will result. And this activity, it was plainly charged, is encouraged by the settlement's occidental residents. Probably Tokyo didn't intend to include Germans and Italians among said occidentals, considering how close its hookup is with Berlin and Rome. Certainly Americans, English and French were referred to; however, presumably Dutch, Belgians and miscellaneous others also.

Belongs to Foreigners

To understand the matter it's necessary to take into account the fact that the Shanghai settlement is the foreigner's very own. It's as much America's as Broadway is; as much English as Piccadilly; as much French as the Rue de la Paix. So when the Japanese talk about grabbing it, they virtually suggest a grab of American, English and French soil.

It started like this:

About 100 or more years ago the western powers were trying to establish trading bases on the Chinese coast. Then the Peking government had no particular objection, but it didn't want to be bothered with the adjustment of piffing complications among these other barbarians on the edge of its territory. Accordingly, the emperor agreed, "I'll give you various nationalities a concession apiece down near my water front, but each of you will have to police and generally regulate your own little patch. It will be, in effect, part of the United States, Britain, France or what not. I simply won't have a darn thing to do with it. It will be off my hands."

Such concessions thus were granted on an unimportant mud-hole on the Whangpoo river, near Yangtsze Kiang, just above the point where the latter empties into the ocean. They were about half a mile wide each, along the Whangpoo and about three miles deep inland. They adjoined. They likewise were alongside the native city of Shanghai, which was a burg of small consequence at that time.

Presently the celebrated Tai Ping rebellion developed in southern China. It was a vicious affair. It cost about 1,000,000 lives. It likewise began spreading in the direction of the Shanghai foreign concessions. The concessions thereupon generally merged for joint defense. They have remained a single outfit ever since, known as the International Settlement. But France stayed out. There's a separate "French settlement" yet, but to most intents and purposes, it's part of the international group. Japan stayed out likewise.

Extraterritoriality

That's extraterritoriality. For instance, if a couple of Americans in international Shanghai get into a litigation with one another, they fight it out in their own local American court. If an American commits a crime, he's tried in that same court—a U. S. federal court, exactly such as we have here at home. To be sure, there's an international police force to make arrests, but it doesn't hold an American or an English prisoner; it turns him over to his own consular authorities. He's even accommodated in his own consular jail.

Nevertheless, there are settlement problems that need to be dealt with locally. These are handled by an international municipal council. English members predominate, their Shanghaiites being in a majority. Still, America is strongly represented. And the Chinese residents of the settlement (there are lots of them) have a voice.

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

Tough On The Country

WASHINGTON, May 9.

AS Congress enters its fifth month it is clear not only that nothing has been done to improve general conditions, conceded bad throughout the country, but unless there is a big change, nothing will be done. The season will end in futility. Little beyond a defense program will have been achieved.

THE high hopes of those who thought that with an independent Congress and a conservative trend, the more glaring New Deal mistakes might be corrected and the obvious steps to free business from hampering restrictions be taken, are now very wet, indeed. This is due partly to the war atmosphere which magnifies the wrong things and minimizes the right ones. But there are other reasons. The chief of these is that President Roosevelt cannot be brought to admit there are any mistakes that need correction. For example, he will not concede that industry is handicapped either by the character of the taxes devised by the New Deal economists or by the operation of New Deal regulatory laws and agencies, which have raised the cost of doing business to a point where the margin for profit is so small that the risks of expansion are prohibitive and the odds against success for new enterprises heavy, indeed.

UNAFFECTED by experience, he still holds the belief that public spending, regardless of debt and deficit, must continue, that there is nothing basic the matter with the WPA system of relief, that governmental economy is a thing to avoid. While in Congress, as in the country, there is strong sentiment to the contrary, without White House leadership nothing really can be done about it. By itself Congress is futile, because although a majority of its members differ with the Presidential attitude, they are not welded together under a single leader and, except infrequently, do not act as a unit. Without Presidential support, the power to resist the organized pressure groups is lacking.

Acrobatic Elephants With Circus

Three herds of pounding, ponderous pachyderms will demonstrate their skill in the Barnett Brothers big three-ring circus and trained animal show featuring Leo Powell, original star of the talking screen sensation: "The Lone Ranger."

The big show comes to New Castle for two performances afternoon and night on Saturday, May 13.

Challenging comparison with their marvelous feats of acrobatic skill the Barnett elephants have attained new prominence under the expert tutelage of Capt. Thomas Burns, veteran trainer of circus animals.

Burns states that elephants are by far the most intelligent of animals. They are quick to learn the most difficult tricks and seemingly they take great pleasure in performing before crowds of onlookers.

His charges have mastered unusual acrobatic stunts and are considered by experts to be the fastest and best-trained elephant performers touring today.

Miss Helene Rogers holds the audience spellbound through her fearless daring work in one of the elephant specialties. At every performance Helene takes chances with her ungainly beasts where the slightest miscalculation might mean her instant death.

She permits them to lie down across her head, thrust her bodily into their giant maws, and in one number they swing her gently to and fro with their powerful trunks. It would, in fact, be gentle motion for the elephants to dash her clear through the canvas dome of the big top. But that is just another chance in the life of a circus performer and Miss Rogers laughs it off as all in a day's work.

Elephants have always been the pride if not the joy of all big circuses. The Barnett Brothers circus is no exception to the rule. That is why they have so many in the 1939 edition of the circus despite the enormous expense such hefty and cumbersome actors represent. The elephants consume tons and tons of best timothy hay annually in addition to sweetened mash and gigantic quantities of fresh greens. Their food order is one of the biggest items on the daily expense sheet of the circus.

With the youngsters and even many adults elephants are the most popular of all animal performers. Even in the huge menagerie of the Barnett Brothers circus this year they have proved to be the greatest and most interesting attraction.

In addition to the trained elephants the Barnett Brothers Circus features a complete and extensive array of jungle beasts in its big double zoological department which will be open to the public for a leisurely inspection at 1 and 7 p.m. on circus day. Exhibitions will take place at 2 and 8 p.m. preceded by concerts of the circus band under the direction of Ira Haynes.

Circus city will be located at the South Mill Street grounds. Reserved seats will be on sale at Love & McGown Drug Store, popular reduced prices will prevail.

Germany-Italy Using New Metal On Fast Planes

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 9.—A newly-developed metal alloy which enables Germany, Italy and other foreign countries to build airplanes that cruise at 500 miles per hour will soon be made available to the army and navy, the federal monopoly investigating committee was told today.

The importance of the metal—beryllium nickel—to the advancement of aviation, was described by Andrew Gahagan, president of Beryllium Corporation, Temple, Pa., who said that Germany was already making extended use of it for military purposes.

"The Germans are considerably more advanced in the use of this alloy for airplane construction," he said, "but we hope to be in commercial production in a few weeks and hope to make this material available to the American public and the army and navy for secret uses which I won't go into here."

Use of the metal in the construction of an airplane, Gahagan said, permits the use of a more powerful motor by reducing vibration to a minimum.

BRIDGE GRAFTING MAY SAVE INJURED TREES

Because the infestation of mice in orchards last fall was the heaviest in recent years, many reports are being received concerning girdling of trees not adequately protected. They want to know what can be done now about their girdled or partly girdled trees.

The answer depends upon the kind and size of tree and the extent of injury. Apple, pear, and peach trees are more frequently girdled by mice. In the case of apple and peach trees, the injuries often can be repaired by bridge grafting, but with peach trees, the degree of success is so limited that it is seldom used. Even the apple and peach trees bridge grafting usually is unsuccessful where mice have removed all the bark from around the base of the trunk and for several feet along the main roots. However, if enough bark remains below the injury to permit bridge grafting, the operator may be successful in saving the tree.

Growers sometimes build false hopes that completely girdled trees may recover with out treatment because they come out in leaf and appear almost normal. The trees may even live as much as three years, but the injury will eventually result in the death of the tree.

Trees less than an inch in diameter at the base seldom are worth bridge grafting. The operation is unlikely to be successful if underlying wood has been long exposed to drying. Cutting off the tree below the injury and grafting one or two scions onto the base is possible. A better plan, is to remove the old tree and replant.

Growers frequently fail to discover girdling until it is too late and an inspection at this time, should be made so that prompt action can be taken. Although it is advisable to bring graft as soon as possible, it has been accomplished successfully even as late as July.

FERTILIZERS BOOST VEGETABLE YIELDS

Vegetable crops respond to applications of commercial fertilizers made in addition to manure and lime.

For example, early cabbage, beans, cucumbers and peas usually benefit from using 500 to 1,000 pounds of 4-16-4, 4-16-8 or 4-10-6 per acre. For head lettuce the amount is generally increased to 1,000 to 2,000 pounds. Sweet corn has given good results from 400 pounds per acre of 4-16-4 applied alongside the seed. If applied in the row with the seed, 200 pounds is sufficient.

Tomatoes and late cabbage both require a fertilizer high in phosphoric acid, low to medium in nitrogen, and medium in potash. Because late cabbage is usually grown on manured soil, 600 pounds per acre of 4-16-4 or 4-16-8 is generally satisfactory.

Home garden crops, particularly tomatoes, head lettuce, cabbage, peas, beans and sweet corn, usually show satisfactory results from 15 to 25 pounds per 1,000 square feet.

This can be applied broadcast before harrowing or as the ground is being spaded and worked deeply into the soil. When large amounts of manure have been used, a 4-16-4 fertilizer is suggested. If large application of either chicken or sheep manure have been made, either 0-14-6 or superphosphate alone may be most effective. For medium fertility 4-12-4, 3-12-6 and 4-16-8 fertilizers are suggested.

CLOTHES MOTHS DON'T LIKE CLEAN CLOSETS

No one likes to have clothes moths about the house, but sometimes homes seem to be overrun with them even after all general control practices have been followed.

Keeping rugs well vacuumed helps check clothes moths, says Miss Julia Markle, home economics extension representative for Lawrence county. Remove woolen clothing stored in closets from time to time and brush them thoroughly. It is particularly important to brush the seams and folded portions of the garment.

Discarded woolen clothing, unless cared for properly, provides an excellent place for the start of an infestation of clothes moths.

Several excellent chemicals are available for the control of the moths, but applications must be thorough if protection is to be as complete as desired. Articles stored in trunks or chests can be protected with flaked naphthalene or paradichlorobenzene. These can also be used to treat closets which can be closed tightly.

A special closet in the attic for the storage of clothes is usually more satisfactory than an ordinary closet that cannot be closed tightly.

Moths do not eat cotton, rayon, linen or silk goods, but if some wool is included in the fabric, moths may cut the woolen fibers.

In general, thorough sweeping of floors, carpets and rugs helps keep clothes moths in check. It also aids in keeping carpet beetles and other household insects under control.

PROPER MANAGEMENT CUTS GARLIC DAMAGE

Garlic, or wild onion, is very common in some pastures, particularly where fertility is low and the grass consequently thin, poor and slow to start.

Garlic growth begins in late winter and the plants reach almost complete development by the time cattle are usually turned out to pasture. Most cows don't object to garlic, some even showing a preference for it. Milk produced by cows eating garlic will be off-flavor even when they are removed from the pasture several hours before milking. Garlic-tainted milk may be unsalable.

Although garlic cannot be eliminated from a pasture without destroying the sod, the trouble can be reduced by several methods. Dry cows, young stock, or a flock of sheep turned out on the pasture a few days to a week before the milking herd will eat most of the garlic tops. Another plan is to mow the pasture closely before the grass is tall enough so that much will be wasted but after the garlic is well grown.

Top dressing the pasture sod with lime, superphosphate and manure will generally prove profitable from the standpoint of increased production and quality of the grasses. It will also result in more grass during the garlic season, making it unnecessary for the cows to eat garlic and also greatly lessening the percentage of garlic to grass. Garlic occurs conspicuously less frequently in well fertilized and managed pasture and lawns. Fairly early, regular and rather close pasturing and mowing is decidedly detrimental to it.

Farmers wishing to make a new pasture can practically eliminate garlic by plowing the ground in late fall or winter for two consecutive years, being careful to completely turn down all garlic tops, in preparation for seeding it to pasture grasses.

Garlic propagates in two ways. When allowed to mature, as in wheat, a head of serial bulblets is produced which either shatter or are threshed out with the wheat. During late winter and very early spring, the parent bulb forms a nest of underground bulblets at its base and then dies. When undisturbed, these bulblets produce the clumps of garlic noticed in pastures and lawns. The bulblets are scattered through the soil by spring plowing. Much of the garlic in wheat could be eliminated by systematic winter plowing before the underground bulblets are formed.

CLEAN WINTER CLOTHES FOR SUMMER HOLIDAY

Winter clothes have had a long, busy season, but a bright sunny day is an excellent time to prepare them for a long rest.

A good cleaning is essential for all clothing to be stored for the summer, according to Miss Julia Markle, home economics extension representative of Lawrence county. Some garments will require dry cleaning or washing and others will need a good brushing.

Miss Markle suggests using a stiff brush for woollens, brushing on both right and wrong sides, and removing lint from under the seams. All stains and spots should be removed before putting away clothing.

If garments are to be worn without alteration next fall, why not do necessary mending now? Sew on loose buttons, reinforce thin places in wool fabrics by darning on the wrong side and mend tears and runs in knit garments.

Dust shoes, stuff with paper or use shoe trees, and store in cotton shoe bags away from dust.

Brush felt hats, remove soiled bands, and stuff the crowns with tissue paper. Store hats in boxes so they keep their shape. Felt hats may be dry cleaned if very soiled.

Accessories that will be good for a second season success will keep fresh if put away clean and packed in tissue paper.

Sweaters are year-round essentials, but heavy ones are put away during the summer. Successful washing of sweaters includes four things: measuring the sweater before washing, use of lukewarm water, plenty of neutral soap suds, and after washing, stretching the sweater to its former size and drying flat at room temperature.

Keeping clothes in good condition and in good repair, means better looking and longer wearing clothes, Miss Markle reminds.

Seeks To Keep Congress From Ending Session

Also Scores "War-Promoting" Speeches By Cabinet Ministers And Others

By EDWARD R. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 9.—With a denunciation of "war-promoting" speeches by cabinet ministers, near cabinet ministers and others, a formal resolution was put before the house Monday to hold congress in continuous session.

Rep. Louis Ludlow (D) Indiana, sponsor of a resolution to require a national vote before declaration of war by the United States, introduced the resolution with this announcement:

"When international relations are tense and there is a prospect that we may become involved in war the place of members of congress is in the city of Washington."

The resolution was introduced as congress moved toward the tollsome job of drafting neutrality legislation to keep the United States out of war, developments included.

Man bites gynathodynamometer—and makes news.

The gynathodynamometer registers strength of bite.

College football players tried their jaws on it.

Their best record was 180 pounds on the down-bite.

A scientist took the gynathodynamometer to the Arctic.

The small-in-stature Eskimos almost ruined it.

Their average bite registered 298 pounds.

One little Eskimo bit the instrument up to 345 pounds.

What is the answer?

Soft diet has made man's jaw weak.

He doesn't chew enough on tough edibles.

Pass the bride's biscuits, Professor.

Bird Houses Not Liked By Cardinals

Folks have been much concerned about back-yard cardinals, that were very sociable last winter. As the summer approaches, these birds have become a little distant.

Bird lovers are seeking to know from Owen Fox, what kind of bird houses should be set up, so that their feathered friends may be retained in their vicinity.

The Cardinal is a bird that is not attracted to bird houses, but generally builds its nest in shrubbery and small trees.

Mr. Fox states that the confidence of the Cardinal in its friends of last winter, can still be retained, by continuing to place raw peanuts, bits of apple, and dried raisins upon the feeding shelf.

Mr. Fox says that he knows of half a dozen cardinals that come to the same feeding station, summer and winter, and feed on the same menu. Persons should not be discouraged because of the shyness of birds in the summer time, as it is the tradition of birds to be wilder during this period, when natural food is plentiful. It is the forced hunger in cold weather that compels these birds to get closer to man, for their existence.

Spanish War Veteran Stops Here On Long Hike

Jimmy O'Connor, of Troy, Tioga county, a Spanish War Veteran arrived in the city Monday, on the trail again for his fifteenth hike across the country.

Private O'Connor saw service in Cuba and the Philippines, with the First U. S. Infantry, Company H. He was being entertained last evening at the American Legion Home.

Jimmy had as a buddy in the Spanish American War, the late George Whittaker of this city. He met at the home, last evening, with Fred Hurlburt, of 310 Sycamore street, who also served in the same regiment in Cuba and the Philippines, and they had a long chat.

Mr. O'Connor, who is a Scotch man, is 69 years of age, and comes of ten generations of soldiers, two generations in the U. S. Army and eight with the Scots, with the "Scotch Greys" and the "Black Watch."

In 1924 doctors said he could not survive long, he having a bad case of bronchial asthma. Then he made up his mind to start hiking, which he feels has improved his health.

Along the route, O'Connor speaks at every opportunity, in favor of the Veterans of Foreign Wars' Child's City, located at Eaton Rapids, Michigan.

He feels that this is his last hike, which will be about 3,500 miles, having covered in his hikes already, about 65,000 miles.

He has visited over a thousand posts and camps throughout the country, and has always been well received. Only in very bad weather and emergencies does Jimmy do any riding. During good weather, he sleeps out at night, carrying his blanket and mess kit in his former Spanish War outfit.

Cheyenne, Wyoming is his destination on this trip, then back through Greeley, Colorado, where he hits the Roosevelt highway, Route 6 back to Boston, Massachusetts. He leaves some time today.

RAILROAD CONSOLIDATION

To the Citizens of New Castle and vicinity:—

I wish to take this opportunity to call your attention to a bill dealing with railroad legislation, identified as H. R. 4862, which bill was introduced by Congressman Clarence Lea, chairman of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce, also a bill containing provisions almost identical to those in H. R. 4862, relating to railroad consolidation that has been introduced in the senate by Senator Burton K. Wheeler, and is known as S. 2009.

Both of these bills are designed to facilitate and expedite railroad consolidation, and the interstate commerce commission may approve consolidation plans, without even holding public hearings. Should either of these bills become law, nothing but the mercy of the interstate commerce commission will save some 200,000 railroad workers from losing their jobs.

Senator Wheeler, although defending the consolidation provisions of his bill, disavowed responsibility for them by pointing out that the provisions in Bill S.2009 (relating to consolidation) was a proposal that was urged and asked to have placed in S.2009 by the committee of six, appointed by the president. Part of this body consisted of representatives of railroad brotherhoods.

Before continuing, I would like to state that, Mr. A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, one of the largest labor organizations in the United States and Canada, assures his members that the railroad management does not have his approval on their committee of six recommendations for consolidation, whereby the interstate commerce could grant consolidations without public hearings. He also assures our good friend Senator Wheeler that we (the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen) shall fight the unification of his bill S.2009.

I would like to point out to the readers of this article just what consolidation would mean to communities such as New Castle. If the number of men employed on the Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio and Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroads who live in New Castle as property owners, paying taxes and helping to sustain the city government were tabulated, you readers would be surprised to learn what percentage of the population of New Castle the railroad worker represents. Now, combine the three railroads into one for operation and when offices, roundhouses, sections and trains were eliminated, the amount of men thrown out of employment would be overwhelming.

Senator Wheeler has now introduced Bill No. S.2009 which would almost certainly bring about widespread railroad consolidation, without public hearings if the Commission choose not to hold hearings. In face of the fact that he many times has stated that the railroad industry is wasting One Million dollars a day, which he discovered while serving on the investigating committee to locate the ills of the railroads of the United States.

The people of this city know that if this Million-Dollar-a-day waste were eliminated from the railroad industry, consolidation with its consequent creation of ghost communities, more severe crowding of trucks on our highways, and the sending into the headlines of additional tens of thousands of railroad workers, would not be necessary.

The issue in railroad consolidation is whether the public will tolerate a situation where-in the desire of Wall Street for railroad profits at the expense of public service, shall be permitted to cause the railroads to abdicate to the private exploitation of public highways by trucks. The increase in trucks upon our highways will be in direct proportion to the amount of railroad consolidations and abandonments, for surely our increasing population must have increasing transportation facilities.

Therefore I wish to make this plea, to all interested readers of this article, that you communicate with your Senators and Congressmen, condemning the consolidations provisions of both Senator Wheeler's bill No. S.2009 and the Lea bill No. H. R. 4862. It is high time that the Public and workers of this country assert and exercise their democratic rights, lest they lose them through apathy. I sincerely hope that enough interest may be awakened in the minds of the public in order that we may be able to combat the provisions of these two bills.

In Closing, I remain yours for better railroad service and safer highways.

A. W. HOWARD,
Sec'y New Castle Lodge No. 955,

Two Injured In Crash On Monday

Driver Loses Control Of Car And Strikes Machine Parked Along Roadway

Two men are in the Jameson Memorial hospital, one in a critical condition, suffering from injuries received when Alexander Peters, aged 44, of Erie, Pa., lost control of his machine on the New Wilmington-Mercer road, a mile north of New Wilmington at 6 o'clock on Monday evening, crashing into the car of Hall Spear, of R. F. D. No. 2, New Wilmington. Peters suffered lacerations of the head and a companion, Walter Mays, aged 46, of Eaglehurst, Pa., suffered a fracture of the skull.

According to information secured by state highway police, Peters was driving towards New Castle, when his machine struck a guard rail and then crashed into the car of Spear, which was parked at the side of the road.

Mays' condition is aggravated by a chronic ailment with which he suffers, and his condition is regarded as critical at the hospital. Peters' injuries are not of a serious nature, it is stated. Spear, who accompanied the other two to the hospital was able to leave after his injuries had been dressed.

DALLAS, Tex., May 9.—Love's young dream didn't work out so smoothly at the United States marshal's office in the Federal building.

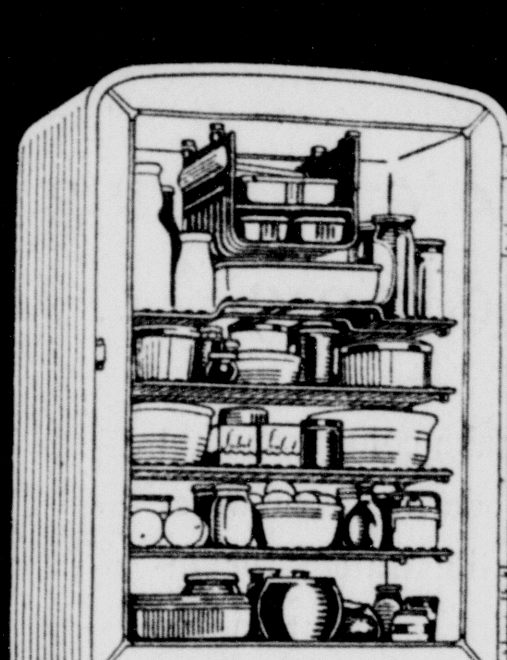

A beautiful brunette girl, about five and a half feet tall, approached Deputy Marshal E. R. Goss and asked if there was someone working in the office who was tall, blond and slim.

"No," said Goss. "Why?"

"I dreamed I would meet my dream lover here today," she explained.

"I don't suppose you could have had that blond fellow mixed up with somebody weighing about 220 and bald?" suggested Goss hopefully. That's his description. But the girl guessed he didn't fill the bill.

Bette Davis And Flynn Select Name For Picture

By MILTON HARKER

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, May 9.—The $2,000,000 Warner production of the life and loves of good Queen Bess centuries ago officially becomes "Elizabeth and Essex" today and now everyone on the studio lot is happy.

The story, with Bette Davis as Queen Elizabeth and Errol Flynn as Lord Essex, started out with an original title of "Elizabeth the Queen" but Flynn objected on the ground the title implied the story was concerned only with a woman. Thereupon the studio executives changed it to "The Knight and the Lady", which it remained until Bette took time out from her work in "The Old Maid" to look over the situation.

Then she objected to the new title, principally on the basis that the story is fundamentally that of Queen Elizabeth and that Essex was secondary.

She also objected to the general name, pointing out there have been pictures called "The Prizefighter and the Lady" and "The Cowboy and the Lady", and that having "The Knight and the Lady" would be a little too much.

So for days the studio has been casting about for another new title, and so now it's "Elizabeth and Essex", which suits Bette and Flynn and the studio bosses. Production begins Thursday, but Bette won't work for two or three weeks. She's getting a little rest after working in three pictures one right on top of the other.

Eve Arden, a newcomer to Hollywood and working in her first picture, "Career" at RKO, has discovered that assistant directors, a much-maligned lot, are not as cruel as they sometimes appear.

One of the cardinal rules on movie sets is that the cast be back from lunch at a stated hour and that applies to the biggest stars as well as the lowliest.

The other day Eve was late coming back from lunch. When she rushed in and found she had held up the picture, she explained to Eddie Donahue, assistant to Director Leigh Jason, that she had met some friends she had not seen in some time and that while they lunched she had not realized time was passing so quickly.

Eddie censured her sharply and in a few minutes Eve was on the verge of tears, which was a good thing because her scene coming up required a highly hysterical performance.

Eve did the scene very well and when she was finished Eddie told her:

"You should have been reprimanded for being late but I gave you a good bawling out because I wanted to get you upset. I figured you could do your scene better and I think you did it better than you would have otherwise."

So Eve thanked him and told him, too, she would never, never again be late on the set.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

fiction. Nations select for their laborers men who are able to wield more ponderous weapons. These, as the siege progresses, become enthusiastic and earnest in spirit, and often demolish what they only intended to clean.

"Greece possessed a magnificent edifice, but it was defiled by the feet of tyrants. The foulness and misery which these occasioned were unendurable. She began housecleaning, but her strength was not sufficient. She fainted in the midst of her work. Reviving and gaining a little strength, she called her sturdy laborers to her and again began her task. Again she fell exhausted. In her last attempt, kind neighbors offered their services and enabled her to remove part of the filth from her apartment. Her strength revived, she is gradually restoring to the edifice that purity which characterized it in the best and brightest age of antiquity.

"Poland has cleaned her house several times within a few years. Whilst the brave Poles have been toiling faithfully to remove their corruption, covetous neighbors have divided their house and joined the divisions to their own stately mansions.

"Hungary has faithfully striven under the direction of noble Kossuth to remove from her dwelling the impurities which adhered to it, but in vain.

"Italy has partially cleaned her house. Garibaldi has rendered one apartment pure—the others are still defiled.

"Russia has improved her rooms by removing the despicable chains which were scattered throughout them, thus making her habitation less prison-like.

"England, two centuries ago, concluded that her house needed cleaning. She found her rooms were tainted with tyranny and ecclesiastical foulness. Without aid, she swept and scoured her extensive apartments. By means of an energetic overseer she expelled the worst of its foulness and more skillful hands restored peace and order.

"France began her housecleaning, but conducted it in a wrong manner. She handled her furniture roughly, breaking the most beautiful of it and scattering it in every direction. She destroyed her dazling palaces and defaced her home pictures. She filled her beautiful gardens and parks with the rubbish and furniture. This filth converted her sparkling fountains into stagnant pools. Ruin was visible everywhere. Without accomplishing her purpose, she was obliged to desist, leaving her dwelling as foul as ever.

"There is another edifice which was reared by noble men. With untiring zeal they toiled day and night to erect it. Many brave laborers lost their lives before the building assumed its form. Its parts were at length nicely adjusted by skillful hands and the edifice was completed. It was commodious, stately and beautiful. Its exterior walls were of pearly whiteness. The pillars which adorned its front were exquisitely carved and connected by arches. Sculptured in its walls were the statues of the heroic men who had sacrificed their lives for the erection of the building. The interior of this edifice was still more attractive, its furniture costly and adapted to the taste of its owners. Its decorations were of curious device. Emblems, mottoes and the names of the distinguished members of the household were written upon the walls of its lofty corridors. It was a model house with all the modern improvements. Pure air, free ventilation and open doors caused other persons whose mansions had been built after the old style to admire it while they gazed upon it with jealousy.

"But in time this building, so fair and beautiful, became polluted. The sunny side of the house had never been cleaned. Its foulness was corrupting the whole dwelling, and when this pollution caused some agitation among those who had rightfully the charge of the whole house, its inmates were enraged and resolved that they would not be interfered with. They wished to be let alone and in their anger and vexation made a bold dash at one of the towers of the castle, intending to gain entire possession of one part of the edifice.

"Housecleaning could no longer be postponed. The master of the edifice hoped that housecleaning would be sufficient, but as his workmen stepped upon the decaying timbers, through their crevices venomous serpents, hitherto unseen, raised their despicable heads and with gleaming eyes and poisonous tongues greeted them with hisses.

"There was one apartment which the overseer determined to clean in a most scientific way, and ridiculous as it may seem, the principal utensils which he employed were spades. These he used for everything and upon all occasions. He also endeavored to strengthen himself by Porter, which he kept continually at hand. Nothing being accomplished, he was dismissed and others were tried. One a good fighter, and a brave man, did not succeed in throwing the hook which he was in the habit of using far enough to pierce the heart of the reptiles. Finally, it was thought that the laborers would progress better if they had some beverage. Therefore, an overseer was given them who would furnish them with Meade. The plan worked well. It infused a new spirit into them. They charged nobly against the enemy, destroying many and scattering others in every direction.

"Meanwhile, many of the other apartments were becoming pure and some bid fair to outshine their former glory. It was thought by some that one of the overseers in the largest room would grant some privileges to its inmates, but the only terms which he granted them was an unconditional surrender. They, after resisting and defying a long time, found it necessary to submit to this Unconditional Grant.

"Over the sunniest apartment of all was placed a chief Butler. His success in the management of this room was unrivaled. So characteristic was his manner of treatment that delight and admiration was the result of every act. He at length gave place to another who had a novel way of cleaning, and Banks became the order of the day. The effects of these renovators promised to engulf the dust and rubbish of this apartment and to leave it swept and garnished.

"Hissing serpents have also found their way into the northern apartments. They are now defiling them and destroying their inmates. Sturdy and faithful men are trying to expel them and hopes are entertained that this housecleaning will soon be over. May our strength never fail and our hopes never flag 'till this beautiful edifice—our Home, be rendered as beautiful as when first reared; 'till pollution and corruption be removed; the dark stains upon its walls utterly effaced and the pure light of Heaven stream undimmed through its lofty halls and magnificent corridors."

Commenting upon the writer's conception of this Nation as a "beautiful house" needing cleaning occasionally, it certainly needs one now.

taxes; third, a revamping of the relief system, putting its administration back in the hands of the states and eliminating not only waste and inefficiency but the subversive influence of the Communist party; fourth, a cessation of spending and a real drive to get back to national solvency.

FOR all these things there is an undoubted majority in Congress just as there is an undoubted majority in the country. But the uncoalesced majority in Congress cannot function effectively so long as the White House weight is against it and is supplemented by the organized lobbies of the C. I. O., the Workers' Alliance and kindred pro-New Deal agencies. It is a bad state of affairs. Here are things which the country clearly needs and which a majority of the people clearly want. Yet they cannot be obtained because Mr. Roosevelt conceives that any move toward them constitutes a repudiation of his policies and a confession of error.

IN private conversation, and in some cases publicly, Mr. Roosevelt has been recorded as favoring all these proposals, excepting only the revamping of WPA. Probably he would have moved himself in their direction, but for the radical group which insists that to do so means stultification and surrender. Certainly at one time he was strongly in accord with the tax-revision plan of the Messrs. Morgenthau and Hanes, whom he mortifyingly left out on the limb to be laughed at. But now, absorbed with the European situation, his plain desire is to check any Congressional action that could possibly be construed as a concession to his opponents.

SO FAR as the Democratic party is concerned the thing upon which he has set his heart is strong platform endorsement of him and his Administration by the 1940 convention. That, regardless of the nominee, is his basic political purpose. To achieve it Congress clearly has got to be prevented from undoing his mistakes and he has got to keep the pose of not having made any. As much as anything else, this accounts for the scuttling of the Morgenthau-Hanes proposals and his imperviousness to reason on the subject of either modification or adjustment of the awkward and unworkable laws for which he is responsible. Resigned and resentful, anti-Administration leaders say there is nothing to do but wait for another President. That is probably true but it is pretty tough on the country.

What's What At A Glance

Now the Japanese assert that this council is violently anti-Japanese.

They maintain that the council, backed by Anglo-Franco-American settlement sentiment, permits the settlement to be made a focus for anti-Japanese agitation.

I believe this to be true. It's natural for a loyal Chinese, who wants a safe place from which to operate to the mikado's disadvantage, to do so from inside the Shanghai international settlement, where he's as independent of Japanese authority as he would be in San Francisco or London.

But for the Japs to try to occupy international Shanghai? Why, it would be comparable, theoretically, to a Jap attempt to occupy Chicago's Chinese laundries, or London's, or Paris—if they have any.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

Copyright 1938, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

PRESENCE OF TUBERCULOSIS INDICATED BY RESULT OF TUBERCULIN TEST

The Dionne Quintuplets have been fortunate in that we have been able to isolate them from most sources of tuberculosis infection. Unless it is absolutely necessary we don't let people into the nursery. But even then we have to be eternally vigilant. Nine persons are working there, including the guards, who go out among others, and so we watch continually for any indication of ill health in any of them.

When tuberculosis strikes a baby, it nearly always begins in the lung. But since the baby has so very little resistance, it soon spreads to other parts of the body. Frequently the disease gets to the brain, causing tubercular meningitis, which is always fatal.

In adults the onset of tuberculosis is heralded by a cough. First symptoms are when the baby becomes pale and fails to gain weight. He begins to run a temperature, for no obvious reason. The baby's doctor is called, and if he too fails to find any clues, he will inject a clear, yellow serum—in which tubercle bacilli have been grown and killed—into the skin of the arm.

If after two days, there is an area of redness around the pinprick, it will mean that the baby has been in contact with tuberculosis and has developed the disease himself. This is called a tuberculin test. If it shows positive in an adult, it doesn't necessarily mean that the disease is present, for most of us have built up an immunity to it. But if a baby under two years of age gives a positive test, then it nearly always means that he has the disease.

Often people who develop the disease and then recover. Sometimes these people are negative when they get the tuberculin test. I recall a Red Cross nurse who came to me for an examination. She told me that she had had tuberculosis eight or ten years before. I gave her the tuberculin test twice, and it was negative both times.

When the doctor has discovered that the test with a baby is positive, he will try to find out just where the infection is most often discovered. By this time, however, the damage is frequently done; the baby may have the germs in his blood stream, free to travel to various parts of the body. Finally they will get to the brain, where they may set up a meningitis. When this happens the child becomes very sleepy and drowsy, and he will soon lose his life.

Tuberculosis used to be known more often as "consumption." In fact, in many parts of the country, this is still the common name for it. Quite understandable, too, for the adult person with it just wastes away—is consumed.

Many of the older novels I have read often told about the beautiful young girl, who gradually wasted away, getting more delicate looking every day. We know now that those girls had tuberculosis. At that time they didn't know the value of fresh air, sunshine and cod-liver oil in preventing this disease.

Coast Woman Weds For Eighth Time, On Rocks Already

Former Husband Calls Too
Many Times, Present Husband Does Not Think
Its Funny

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, May 9.—Just a few hours after Mrs. Billy Graves heard herself pronounced "wife" for the eighth time, her marriage to Billy Graves, 26 year old musician was apparently on the rocks today.

Graves strode angrily last night from the Hollywood home where he had taken his bride—Mrs. Nina De Milo—Canfield—Martin—Monroe—Colton—Graves—fresh from an elopement to Yuma, Ariz., Saturday.

"I am getting an annulment," he informed the newspapers.

"I'll get a divorce" said Mrs. Graves shortly thereafter.

Both agreed the rift was caused by the bride's previous mate, Darrel L. Colton. He had phoned her, it seems, too many times since her elopement.

Graves said she refused to conform to Colton her latest marriage.

"Darrel has heart trouble and I wanted to break the news gently," Mrs. Graves, 28 an attractive blonde began her marital career when a girl of 16. She married two of her former husbands twice—Colton and Martin.

Business Ills
Resulting From
Soft Coal Tieup

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, May 9.—While anthracite and oil sales in the eastern part of Pennsylvania sent business roaring upwards, Western Pennsylvania today found itself in the labyrinth of unemployment and business depression because of the bituminous "holiday."

In the last month almost 1,300 engine and shop men on the principal railroads in the vicinity have been laid off. Business and industry in maintaining a "conservation" policy, have laid off additional thousands. It has been estimated that 125,000 soft coal miners in Western and Central Pennsylvania are idle.

Meanwhile, in the eastern part of the state it was reported that the industries haven't felt the "pinch" of the bituminous strike yet, and that small concerns merely switched from soft to hard coal and kept running full time. An increase in bootleg mining was also reported in Eastern Pennsylvania.

Comes With Excess Fat Reduction.

Thousands of women are getting fat and losing their appeal just because they do not know what to do. Why not be smart—do what thousands of women have done to get off pounds of unwanted fat. Follow the sensible, safe pleasing food lists inside of a jar of Kruschen. Then for a wholesome beneficial aperient effect on liver and bowels and for a mild helpful diuresis of the kidneys—take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water every morning. Keep this plan up for 30 days. Then weigh yourself and see if you haven't lost pounds of ugly fat.

Just see if this doesn't prove to be the surprise of your life and make you feel like shouting the good news to other fat people. And best of all—a jar of Kruschen that will last you for 4 weeks costs but little. Don't miss the little daily dose. New Castle Drug Co. and Eckerd's.

Hitler Has Foot
Dirorders, Says
Noted Chiroprapist

(International News Service)
DETROIT, May 9.—Do you want to rid the world of dictators? Cure their foot trouble.

This astonishing remedy for one of the world's worst ills today was advanced by Dr. Morton Hack, Detroit chiroprapist attending the Michigan chiroprapist convention. He said:

"The whole growth of dictatorships in Europe is the result of faulty feet. That Adolf Hitler has foot trouble and foot disorders is a foregone conclusion—you can see it written all over his face."

Dr. Hack pursued this conclusion with the promise foot disorders usually manifest themselves in a person's general demeanor.

Yard Engines In Wreck At Cherry Street Tracks

Considerable Damage Done As Two Engines Come Together At Switch

Two yard engines of the Pennsylvania railroad came together Monday evening, on the tracks along Newell avenue, near East Cherry street, and did considerable damage. Tracks in the yard were torn up for almost 200 feet, as the trains left the rails and went into the ties. Front of one of the engines were badly damaged, while the tender and tank on the rear of the other suffered from the collision. Both of the engines were working out of the nearby Pennsylvania railroad shops when the accident occurred. Mishap occurred at a switch in the yard, when one of the engines apparently started through before sufficient clearance at the switch had been obtained by the other. Crews from the railroad shop worked a good portion of the night, with the aid of flares, to put the engines back on the track and return them to the shop. Several hundred people from the ward gathered at the scene of the wreck and watched the operations.

Founder Of Rotary Is Guest Of District 175 At Convention

Paul P. Harris, the man who founded Rotary and gained a world-wide reputation for that work, is New Castle's distinguished convention guest this week. He will be honored by delegates and guests at the 175th district sessions, opening this evening.

Harris, 71, last April 19, has received official decorations, honors and awards in appreciation for his leadership from citizens and governments of many countries of the world.

Now president emeritus of the international organization, Harris was born in Racine, Wis. He was educated in the public schools and academies in Vermont, the University of Vermont, Princeton university, and the University of Iowa, receiving the degrees of Ph.B., LL.B., and LL.D.

Once Was Reporter

After completing his law course in 1891, he spent the following five years in seeing the world and learning to know his fellows by actual contact with them under all sorts of conditions. He worked as a reporter on daily papers in San Francisco and Denver, rode the range in the cow country, picked oranges in southern Louisiana, sold marble and granite, crossed the Atlantic twice on cattle ships, and made a third trip to Europe on business.

The acquaintances which he made in college and during his travels were of material assistance in the early extension of Rotary.

In 1896 he felt he had gained sufficient practical knowledge to be of service to his clients and opened a law office in Chicago. He had neither friends nor relatives in that city. He had much time for reflection and pondered much on conditions of life and business in a large city. In 1905, as a result of his studies and reflections, he had formulated a definite philosophy of business relations. Calling together three of his friends, each of whom was engaged in a different line of business, he expounded his theory to them.

Nucleus In Chicago

This group was the nucleus of the first Rotary club in the world, the Rotary Club of Chicago. Through the work of Paul Harris and other members of the Chicago club, similar clubs began to be organized in a number of other cities.

After a few years the necessity for some organization to bind these different clubs together became apparent. Thereup Paul Harris, Chesley Perry, and others organized the Na-

The students assembled at the building and were formed into line, leaving the building at 1:55 o'clock, deared himself to the pupils by his kindly interest in them and his cheery disposition. His passing will

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEALL

If you want to see a show of great interest... then be sure to attend the gym show staged by the girls of the Senior High School. According to reports we have some mighty powerful young ladies in this town... and aside from the physical aspect the color of costumes is stupendous... Three cheers to all the girls who are taking part and to their director Miss Fisher.

Would you believe it... the old Robin Hood story is coming back into style... Archery... a group of local folks interested in this sport have organized and call themselves the New Castle Archery Club... the only one of its kind in this vicinity. They have a range on the Scott farm which is located about one mile from New Castle off the East Brook Road. Membership in the club is open to anyone who cares to try his skill at bringing them down the way the Indians used to, many years ago... but we do hope that no one starts out as a William Tell.

The flags that were up all wrong yesterday morning were ordered by the Mayor to be fixed... one person called in this morning and said that maybe the reason they were put up wrong was because they were put up on Sunday... there might be something in that.

Rotarians and Rotary-Anns are starting to gather from near and far... tonight a reception will be held in the Cathedral. Paul Harris founder is on the list for the reception line along with the district governor Glenn Rickert. As one fellow stated it... all the "digs" will be here.

We would like to say at this time that we deeply appreciate the great response to the request that something be done about the boy who lost his sister's shoes. Although we haven't as yet found the thief out... we have visited the boy and everything is fixed up.

This ad came from the Sunday Tribune... Durban, Africa.

WANTED—LIVE SNAKES of all kinds, especially Python, Mambas, Baboon Adders or Butterfly Snakes. Excellent prices paid. Carriage forward or personally delivered to FitzSimons Snake Park, Marine Parade, Durban.

THE GUMPS—DOUBLE TROUBLE

Don't you try to pull the wool over my eyes, you philanderer! We saw you at the restaurant with that—that vamp!

ER-AH-ME? NO, MAMA—HA-HA—THAT WAS—BRUMPH—BRUMPH—MY DOUBLE!

YOUR DOUBLE?

ER-YES—CERTAINLY MY DEAR—ANY PUBLIC PERSONAGES HIRE DOUBLES—

—DOUBLE, HUM? WELL, JUST MAKE SURE IT'S NO DOUBLE-CROSS!

Norman E. Clark Roll Call Head

Announces Acceptance Of 1939 Roll Call Chairmanship Of Red Cross

DATES FOR DRIVE ALSO ANNOUNCED

Announcement was made today by Chairman Ralph F. Davis of the Lawrence county chapter, American Red Cross, of the acceptance by Norman E. Clark of the 1939 Roll Call chairmanship. At the same time the dates for the campaign this fall have been announced as from November 11 to November 25, inclusive.

Mr. Clark, who is treasurer of the chapter and has been a member of the executive committee for more than ten years, has been vitally interested in the affairs of the chapter for some time. In addition, he is actively identified with many other civic activities, being one of the founders of the Greater New Castle movement.

Members of the chapter feel gratified to know that the coming campaign will be in such capable hands and feel that it will be the most successful effort for many years.

With the acquisition of a chapter house, the chapter has launched itself on a full campaign of Red Cross activities of a much wider scope than has been attempted in many years, which will call for additional support from the community.

Memorial Service Plans Outlined At Meeting Monday Eve

World War Organizations Have Meeting To Further Plans For Coming Service

Plans for one of the largest religious observances of Memorial Day were outlined at a meeting of representatives of the various World War organizations and auxiliaries in the Legion Home Monday evening. The memorial service this year will take place in the First Presbyterian church immediately following the water service at the North street bridge Sunday evening, May 28, and the pastor, Dr. John J. McVaine, a member of the Perry S. Gaston post, will deliver the sermon.

Tribute will be paid to the memory of all veterans of the district who have passed away during the year, and according to the plans made by the committee, will be different in nature from past services. Similar meetings have been held by representatives of other veteran and patriotic organizations, or will be held in the near future, to cooperate in the service, which should attract the largest attendance of any service of this nature held in some time.

Isn't it strange that anti-German activity always happens to start in a little country that Hitler needs in his business.

News Briefs From City Hall

It cost the city $470 for truck rental to haul tin cans from properties here, according to a bill submitted to council and which has been approved. Half of the money will be applied on the delinquent taxes of the owners of the trucks used in the clean-up.

Auto stolen from L. F. Catherman on April 28 was found abandoned in Kent, O., according to a police report.

P. R. R. crossing in Grant street was closed to traffic this morning. Traffic was detoured east and west at Shenango and also at State streets.

Someone broke a rear window in a business place at 126 West Washington street, police were informed last night.
